CHOIRBOYS TO ROCK THE TUGGERANONG FESTIVAL

This year's Tuggeranong Festival is set to rock like never before with The Choirboys being confirmed as the headline act for Saturday 27 November 2010.

Best known for their hit song "Run to Paradise", which became an Australian rock anthem, Mark, Ian and Paul still deliver high energy live rock three decades after they first got together in Sydney's northern beaches.

"We're absolutely thrilled to be able to bring such high calibre performers to the community for free," says Tuggeranong Festival President Michael Lindfield.

"They're one of the quintessential Australian rock acts and will provide a spectacular finish to a great Festival for people of all ages."

Other classic songs from the boys include "Never Gonna Die", "Boys Will Be Boys", and "Struggletown", and they will shortly embark on a national 30th anniversary tour.

Supporting The Choirboys will be local Canberra band Velvette. An eight piece group with a distinctive sound, Velvette are quickly establishing themselves as one of Canberra's premier live acts and have just released their debut album.

The Tuggeranong Festival began 22 years ago as a neighbourhood gathering in Kambah. Since then, it has grown to become one of Canberra's favourite festivals, celebrating community spirit, promoting multicultural diversity and showcasing artistic, civic and sporting achievements.
